UN Completes Transfer Of Anti-Reds

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Sept. 22. — The United Nations completed today its delivery of more than 23,000 anti-Communist Chinese and North Korean prisoners to Indian custodian troops.

The Communists are still holding 23 Americans and more than 200 other U.N. prisoners who refuse to return home.

Apparently because of this, an Indian spokesman said that questioning of anti-repatriate prisoners by indoctrination officers will be delayed 24 hours and will start Saturday.

The Indian spokesman said that 20 newsmen from each side, U.N. and Communist, will be permitted to attend the interviews of the indoctrination officers with the prisoners who refuse to go home.

The spokesman said that photographers, newsmen and cameramen and radio reporters would be barred from the interviews to be held in the two prison camps that make up Indian Village.

The interviews will be conducted over a 90-day period as "explaners" from each side will attempt to convince prisoners who do not wish to go home that they should change their minds.

An American colonel said that 20 United Nations observers would witness the interviews of anti-Communist North Koreans and Chinese to prevent "explaners" from intimidating them.

Similarly, Communist observers will watch Allied "explaners" attempt to recruit the 300 prisoners, including 23 Americans, who said they do not want to go home.

The United Nations Command said it was going to handle 16 interviews simultaneously, using hand-picked "explaners" who will work with five groups of prisoners at the same time. The Communists have not announced their plans.

Announcement of the program for news coverage of the interviews came as the U.N. Command released the last of its 23,000 anti-Communist prisoners to Indian guards.

The final transfer involved 1,697 anti-Red prisoners, including many sick and wounded, to the Indians.

Army Too Careless Says AWOL GI

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Sept. 22. — A young GI who went AWOL and hitchhiked all the way from Korea to America without orders or a pass said today the Army is "too careless."

Pvt. Robert Drane, 22, of 338 Beecher Street, Louisville, Kentucky, threaded his way through guards, officers and military regulations with the simple story "I'm going home."

The military didn't even catch him. He turned himself in Tuesday and told how he was able to leave his outfit in Korea, board a ship at Pusan, travel to the states and leave Camp Stoneman Army embarkation center.

The Army should check more carefully, Drane said seriously. "They're too careless."

The young soldier said he went "over the hill" and headed home when he heard his sister had been deserted by her husband and left with four children to support.

"My mind was constantly on my sister," Drane said. "Something like that can get a man down."

The sister, Mrs. Dorothy Umler of Sacramento, persuaded the soldier to give himself up when she learned he was absent without leave from his outfit in Korea.

Drane was a member of the 32nd Infantry Regiment based at Camp Scott when he decided to "go home." He said he "just put on a clean uniform and took off."

Reds Moved Planes After Armies Is US Claim

By VICTOR L. K. complete MIG to fall into U. S. hands. It was dismantled and put aboard a giant C-124 transport plane which will take it to the United States for study.

An Air Force spokesman at Dayton, Ohio, said the MIG would be tested at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, where it will be examined and then reassembled for flight tests.

Anderson said expert engineers will determine the "spin" of the MIG.

"The pilot Noh claimed spinning is a defensive measure, but we asked him how come so many of them crashed," Anderson said. "He merely shrugged, and said the planes just went out of control."

"We also could learn quite a lot about their armament, communications, gunights and improvements in the engines the Russians have made."

Anderson said the United States definitely would not return the MIG to the Communists.

"It seems unlikely that the United States would pay $100,000 for the MIG and then return it," he said.

Young North Korean air force Lt. Noh Keun Suk backed up Anderson's charge by giving an eyewitness account of the Communist treachery after turning over his Russian-made MIG to U.S. authorities.

Noh said the Communists believed fighting would break out in Korea again and were preparing for resumption of hostilities.

The MIG surrendered by the 22-year-old runaway North Korean, who highlighted the MIG as a "first free for his action was the 'first'."

Homecoming Set For October 10 At MSC

Homecoming for the nearly four thousand graduates of Murray State College has been set for Saturday, October 10, with appropriate all-day activities.

Hundreds of the graduates, along with scores of the more than twenty thousand former students are expected to join the festivities.

Highlight of the affair will be the football game at 8 p. m. in Murray State Thoroughbred and the Tigers of Memphis State.

Activities will get underway at 8 p. m. with the Vivace Club breakfast in the Hut just off the college campus. The traditional early morning get-together of former music students, with Dr. Prier Doyle, head of the Fine Arts Department, as host, usually draws most of the early comers to the campus.

Top attraction of the day will be the homecoming parade set to begin marching at 1:30. The route of march will, as usual, take the graduates through the downtown section of Murray before returning to the campus.

The Home Economics department will entertain returning alumni at an informal coffee hour from 3:30 to 4:30 in their living and dining room section in the Science building.

At 5 p. m. activities will shift to the Health building for a barbecue supper prepared by members of the college faculty.

The finale dance, beginning at 10 p. m. will wind up the affair. Registration of returning alumni will continue throughout the day.

The business session of the MSC Alumni Association on the second floor of the Science building is slated for 3 p. m., at which time officers for the next year will be nominated.

Two Children Die In Old Icebox

Bainbridge, Ga. Sept. 22. — Two more children have died of suffocation in an abandoned ice box despite a father's fearful precautions to make such a tragedy "impossible at his home."

Police said four-year-old Susan Hinchliffe, her playmate John Moran, also 4, and their pet terrier died late Tuesday when they accidentally became trapped in a refrigerator in the Hinchliffe garage.

Everett Hinchliffe said because of reports of the rising toll from such accidents across the nation he had taken careful precautions against just such a mishap.

"I'd read about such things and even thought about them but it just didn't seem possible it could happen here," he said.

"I had the garage wired so they couldn't get in it, and the refrigerator was filled with old boxes so there was no room for anything else, but they got in."

Properly Prepared Plant Bed Necessary For Good Plants

The tobacco grower is intensely interested in having plenty of healthy, vigorous plants ready for transplanting early. To accomplish this, enough plant bed area should be prepared to furnish the plants needed for the entire crop at two plantings. To have such beds it is necessary to have a fertile soil in well drained land, high in organic matter, to have it prepared at the right time, and with a material that will control weeds, and to provide for the conditions will control diseases and insects. Among the materials that are satisfactory for killing weed seeds in tobacco plant beds is Cyanamid. There are other materials that give good results.

If Cyanamid is to be used successfully there are a few basic ideas to keep in mind as to practice. The first perhaps is to have a soil well filled with organic matter. This may be accomplished by plowing under a heavy summer legume, or even a weed crop, provided it is turned before the weeds make seed. Generally speaking, where permanent plant beds are used, if the bed is plowed as soon as setting is completed in June and seeded to soybeans or cowpeas, (12 to 15 pounds per 100 square yards), the crop may be turned in late August or early September, and two to three weeks after it is plowed the material will have decayed sufficiently for the Cyanamid treatment. This procedure fits well into the program to control leafspot diseases.

The amount of Cyanamid, to use in most Kentucky soils is 1 1/2 pounds to the square yard. After the soil is thoroughly prepared, 3-4 pound of Cyanamid should be spread on the soil with 1-2 pound of 20 cent super-phosphate to the square yard, and discing into the ground about 3 inches deep. The soil is then raked and 3-4 pound additional Cyanamid added to the surface and raked into the top 1-2 inch of soil to complete the treatment. The bed should then be mulched and the soil watered heavily, using 500 gallons of water to the bed 100x9 feet. If the weather continues dry, an additional watering a week or so later will be helpful. To be effective the Cyanamid should be applied early in the fall when the weather is 60 degrees or warmer.

As soon as the plant bed site is made a deep furrow two or three feet from the bed should be plowed around the bed to protect it throughout the winter and spring from surface water. Surface water flowing over the bed brings in weed seed and wildfire. Also, there is a possibility in a black shank area that black shank might be introduced through surface water. Thorough ditching of a bed is one of the most neglected phases of tobacco plant bed management. It is necessary to keep surface water from flowing over planted beds to have healthy plants. In late January or early February the mulching material should be burned or removed from the bed to permit drying out of the soil and the ammonia furnished by the Cyanamid will escape. Then the bed should be raked lightly (not over 1 inch deep) with a hard rake to provide loose soil for seeding. It is recommended that Cyanamid beds be seeded no later than the 1st of March to the 1st of April.

In areas producing dark tobacco and on farms where black shank is a factor, permanent plant beds should not be used, but a site satisfactory for growing plants should be selected, plowed in May or June, then seeded to a winter legume, and the same method followed as outlined in permanent beds will give the same benefits as provided by the permanent plant bed and lessens the danger of losses from diseases in the plant bed.

Farmers who have followed the above plan in growing tobacco plants have been successful and it is believed that the above steps, if followed, will lead to the production of desirable plants on many farms.

"Defects" To Be Corrected He Tells AFL Convention

By ALAN ADAMS
United Press Staff Correspondent
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 23. — President Eisenhower told the American Federation of Labor today he will send to Congress next January recommendations to correct "a number of defects" in the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Mr. Eisenhower said in a message to the AFL national convention that he believes the controversial act is essentially sound but needs some revisions.

Mr. Eisenhower's message was read to the AFL convention by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Mr. Eisenhower said that he believes that enactment of the Taft-Hartley Act was a "substantial contribution to the quest for sounder labor-management relations." But he conceded that the past six years have "revealed a number of defects which should be corrected."

He said that the defects had been under "critical study" and that he would send his recommendations for revisions to Congress at the opening of its next session in January.

Mr. Eisenhower's message was sent to the federation amid contradictory statements by Durkin and the White House over whether Mr. Eisenhower ever had approved 19 proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley law.

Durkin told a convention Tuesday that Mr. Eisenhower had agreed to revise the law.

In his message, Mr. Eisenhower did not deal directly with the controversy. He said that his entire administration regretted the necessity that Durkin felt he must resign.

The President listed four objectives of the administration's "critical study" of the Taft-Hartley law:

1. To remedy defects which caused concern on the part of workers over possible uses of the act to detriment of their welfare.
2. To insure efficient, speedy, and impartial administration of the law.
3. To permit healthy growth of labor unions, "while respecting

Governor to Be Here Friday

Governor Lawrence Wetherby and a group of 96 persons will come to Murray on Friday, September 25 at 3:15 p. m.

the legitimate rights of individual workers, their employers and the general public."

4. To keep government "interference" in labor-management affairs.

While the administration's dispute with the AFL was set to come to a head on the convention floor, the union headquarters resounded with repercussions from the ouster of the International Longshoremen's Association for dock gangsterism.

The 60-year-old longshoremen's president, Joseph P. Ryan, was talking of calling an ILA convention to decide what the union's next move would be. The ILA faced a major battle not only to retain its members, but also to hold onto its welfare fund and other benefits collected for the dockworkers.

The AFL revoked the ILA charter late Tuesday by the overwhelming vote of 72,360 to 650, with each vote representing 100 AFL members. The union acted with the charge that the waterfront union was following practices of "organized crime and lawlessness."

In taking the action, the federation served notice that it would charter a new union to take over the longshoremen who wanted to stay in the AFL, as well as the benefits collected by the ILA for its members.

Ryan, in a futile appeal to the convention not to throw his union out, warned that the move would lead to "chaos" along the waterfront. Ryan's warning was considered mild, as some AFL officials anticipated a pitched battle for control of the dock workers.

General Dean Praises GI As Real Hero

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 23. — Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, the fighting hero of Taejon, was back home today after six long years in Korea. His first words were for the "real hero" of the Korean war — the GI.

In characteristic fashion, he disclaimed all honors for himself when he arrived at 10:05 p. m. Tuesday at nearby Travis Air Force Base on a routine air evacuation flight from Tokyo.

Dean, who won the Congressional Medal of Honor for his heroic stand at Taejon that resulted in a three-year imprisonment, called himself "just a dog-faced soldier." Then he praised GIs who he said, underwent worse experiences than his and still "clung to their American ideals."

After speaking briefly to reporters and a cheering crowd of 500, Dean went straight to his home in Berkeley, along with his wife, Mildred, and 18 other members of his family.

Mrs. Dean had cooked a ham "so that no matter what time he came, we'd have it for him."

Dean's plane arrived on hour ahead of schedule from Honolulu. When the plane taxied in front of the terminal building, a ramp was pushed up to the nose door of the C-97 and Mrs. Dean went aboard first.

"They embraced at some length just inside the doorway, only half visible to the crowd outside. Then the general and his wife came down the ramp arm in arm. At the bottom, he embraced his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Dean; his daughter, Mrs. June Williams; and met his son-in-law, Capt. Robert Williams, for the first time.

Also present were 14 other family members, including two grandchildren he had never seen. Robert Dean, Williams, 2, and Ann Williams, 7 months.

Important Drive Coming Up

Murray has had many drives and fund raising campaigns, but a new one comes up soon that will not cost our citizens one thin dime.

Drives have a tendency to wear on ones nerves after so long a time, and regardless of the worthiness of the cause, the donations are hands out finally "get old."

This particular drive, however, will not require any money at all. And, just because no money is required, it does not mean that the drive is not important. It probably is most important, from the standpoint of saving lives, than any drive now underway.

This program is the giving of blood under the auspices of the American Red Cross.

It entails citizens of Murray giving one pint of their blood.

This whole blood is used in a variety of ways. Some of it is used in its present form in blood transfusions. A lot of it is used in the manufacture of Gamma Globulin, which has given promise of protecting our children from Polio.

Some of the blood can be transformed into plasma which has life giving qualities almost as good as blood itself.

Almost any adult can give blood and will not miss a pint, since the normal adult has five or six gallons. The great good derived from the single pint of blood taken from many individuals is almost beyond conception.

Blood and blood derivatives used in the Korean conflict cut deaths to a minimum. Gamma Globulin, which is made from human blood, is believed to have stopped polio in its tracks this summer.

If atomic attacks are carried out against the United States, the need of human blood will be tremendous, since many transfusions will be needed by those affected by atomic radiation.

The citizens of Murray will do a great good turn on October 9 if they will give a pint of blood, and they might even be doing themselves a good turn, in the event of a disaster or epidemic in this area.

Brooklyn Has Seen A Big Improvement In Their Hitting

This is the third of a series comparing the Dodgers and the Yankees for the 1953 World Series.

By CARL LUNDQUEST
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. (UP)—The most astonishing thing about Brooklyn's "window breakers" this year is the overall improvement in hitting over last season and that especially is true in the outfield.

In no other department do the Dodgers show such a sharp edge over the Yankees.

The Yankees, however, might rate a slight overall defensive edge in the outfield, especially if old pro Jack Robinson runs into a little trouble with the tricky shadows and the low curve fence in Yankee Stadium's left field.

But Brooklyn more than makes up for that at bat, even if right fielder Carl Furillo is unable to play if he still is below par as the result of his battle with Leo Durocher. The three Dodger regulars, Furillo, Robinson and Duke Snider, have batted in a total of 309 runs and have hit 74 homers.

Compare that with the production of Gene Woodling, Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer, which totals 206 runs batted in more than 100 fewer and just 40 homers, just a little more than half the Dodger total.

Last year when the Brooks fought the Yankees to seven games before losing, these same three regulars Robinson was an infielder then had only 46 homers and 226 runs batted in.

Position by position the contrast is even sharper. Furillo in right is as good a fielder as Bauer, better in "Brooklyn" where he knows those carom plays off the wall and he has a better arm although both long to play right field instead of Furillo, the Yankees would have a defensive edge because of Gil's inexperience, but he brings a .368 average, 120 RBIs and 31 homers into the jackpot.

In center are two of the game's greatest outfielders. Mantle, before his most recent knee injury could cover more ground than Snider but the Duke is a sure ball hawk and throws better. At bat it is no contest, despite those tremendous tape measure homers Snider, batting .339 and going up daily, is aiming to beat Furillo out of the N.L. batting title. He has 124 RBIs and 41 homers, more than the entire first line Yankee trio, Mantle has 91 RBIs, the only 20 homers and as batting .301.

Woodling, through extra-base hits, the best left fielder in the league, is at the stadium and he is almost as talented elsewhere. Robinson, no kazzle boy and more, still has class wherever he plays, but the Yankee left-fielder has to be given a considerable edge defensively. At bat Robinson totals a .332 average, runs batted in and 12 homers. Woodling is .299, has 38 runs batted in and 10 homers.

How to do it: A new roof on top of old. REPLACEMENT SHINGLES. CHILES SHINGLES. RAILED FLAT.

of laying a new roof on top of the old one. Asphalt shingles, a colorful material which enhances the attractiveness of older dwellings, are customarily used for this purpose. The method saves the expense of tearing the worn-out roofing off and retains the insulation value of the old material. The old surface, however, must first be smoothed to serve as a firm nailing base. To do this, it is necessary to replace missing and rotted shingles with new ones, split curled shingles and nail the segments down, and re-nail loose shingles in new nail locations.

New York (UP)—Feeling to the tune of "I'm Upset Baby," but still willing to spend your money, Fraley's Folies and the weekend football "winners."

Game of the Week
Notre Dame over Oklahoma: If last week was a tipoff, this is tantamount to a kiss of death. But from the way Frank Leahy is wailing, the Irish are loaded. On top of which, if Oklahoma couldn't do it last year, there's no reason to think it can this time.

Army over Furman: Booby-trapped maybe.
Boston College over Clemson: On the alphabet system.
Navy over William and Mary: Oh man, the life boats.
Penn. over Vanderbilt: Who needs reason?

Syracuse over Temple: Back in the right league.
Also: Cornell over Colgate, Pitt over West Virginia, Brown over Amherst, Princeton over Lafayette, Yale over Connecticut, Holy Cross over Dartmouth, Columbia over Lehigh, Bucknell over Buffalo.

Midwest
Michigan State over Iowa: 25 in a row.

New York (UP)—A newly-designed lawn sprinkler does the grass and then rolls itself up. You lay out the hose in any desired pattern on the lawn and turn on the water.

A self-propelled sprinkler shoots the water over a diameter of 30 to 70 feet, while it travels in an estimated 17 feet an hour. The wheel on the reel supporting the sprinkler winds up the hose as it moves along.

Water pressure and a set of reduction gears in the reel provide motion for the 22-pound gadget. It handles 125 feet of common lawn hose.

New Coats Are Soft And Sumptuous Says Women's Wear Daily

The narrow but soft coat, in cut as well as illustration is the new-making coat silhouette of the fall season, says Women's Wear Daily. The general expression is easy and sumptuous with luxurious fabrics, rich with fur content augmenting the soft look.

The fitted coat makes a strong bid for acceptance. The newest version, is the bloused-back coat with deep dolman sleeve, as well as the more familiar princess silhouettes, surplice closing styles and belted and wrapped effects.

Yawns, Then

LISTENING TO U. S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles tell the United Nations General Assembly in New York that he doubts that the Communists desire to comply with Korean truce terms, Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky makes no pretense of hiding a big yawn. But, at the end of the Dulles address, a great round of applause stunned the Russian. The pro-Red bloc left the hall without a word. (International)

Newsworthy are the slimmed down skirts, the touch of luxury fur at the throat, the choice of smooth broadcloth or precious fiber fabrics which add to their softness. The loose-but-straight hanging coat, softened with pretty collars, waistline emerges as the coat destined for top popularity. This offers a compromise for the extremely narrow, and the full coat silhouette, being an easy type to wear.

Fur-trimmed, or fur-lined coats are in a classification of their own. Large cape collars of longhaired foxes, blond tone flank muskrat lining, touches of leopard, mink, sable, beaver, plastrons and ascot scarves of Persian, nutria, broadtail, skins of marmot, mink, fish are bidding for popularity as trimming detail.
